A CITIZEN.

May 21st, 1804.

RALEIGH, (N. C.) May 7.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Hancock county, Georgia, to his friend in this state, under date of the 6th ult.

"Yesterday about two o'clock in the afternoon a tremendous tornado of a mile and a half in width, the most dreadful which has ever visited the state, passed within a mile of this place. In its passage of 20 miles from the Oconee it put a period to eight lives, and crippled and wounded upwards of fifty persons, some of whose lives are dispased of. Ten dwelling houses and a number of barns and out houses were razed to the ground, and scarcely a roof which its course and breadth included were left on a house.

No tree of any tolerable size can be seen standing in its track. Cabbage stocks not six inches long and pine stumps not waist high were torn up by the roots; beds, books and other furniture were carried off and no traces of some of them to be seen or heard of. A large ox cart at Mr. Wood's was taken up, the wheels fell off after whirling 200 yards in the air, and the body was carried better than half a mile before it fell to the ground. Among the unfortunate sufferers a woman and child were carried away in the whirlwind, and have not yet been found nor heard of. Several horses, cattle, &c. were killed, and as our information is quite small not knowing the distance it has gone to the east (as its course was from the S. W.) it is much to be feared that more damage has been done than we have any conception of.

This whirlwind was not more uncommon than the size of the hail that preceded it, some of which fell in this place weighed five ounces, measuring eight inches round, and some inclosing small pieces of pine limbs. These things may appear incredible, but they are no less strange than lamentably true."

NEW-YORK, May 8.

Capt. Miller, of the brig Margaret, from Halifax, informs us that just before his departure a British government schooner had arrived at Sidney in 19 days from Guernsey, with intelligence that another revolution in France had restored Louis XVIII. to the throne of his ancestors! By what singular means BONAPARTE was superseded, we have not been able to learn. Capt. M. says, the printer at Halifax (Mr. Gale) was preparing an extra sheet containing the particulars of the event, for publication; and that he could have obtained a copy by waiting about an hour longer, which the tide would not permit him to do.

The king of England was living, and in a state of convalescence.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.

Capt. of the schooner Republican, who arrived at the Lazaretto on Monday in twenty-one days from New Orleans, mentions, that general Wilkin son had taken his passage in the ship Louisiana, which was to sail in about 8 days after him for New-York.

WASHINGTON CITY, APRIL 30.

To facilitate to claimants under the 7th article of the treaty with Great Britain the receipt of their monies in instances in which they have not constituted the public agent in London, their special attorney, it has been thought proper to draw to the United States all such monies of the above description as may not be drawn from him by the individuals themselves prior to the first of September next. The agent is accordingly instructed to cease paying them after that date, but after the first of November next, they will be again payable at the city of Washington, to those who have right, or to their attorneys duly authorized.

LEXINGTON, MAY 29.

DIED—Suddenly, on Saturday evening last, Mr. JOHN HARRISON, a citizen of this town.

Yesterday's mail brings London dates down to the 6th April, by them it appears that the king of England was not dead, but had recovered his health—that no restoration of monarchy in France had taken place—that Moreau had not been tried for conspiracy—that the French invading army was in "great forwardness"—that the British "stone expedition" had failed; together with some other articles less interesting.

* The attempt to block up the port of Boulogne and other French ports, by sinking old vessels filled with stone, is called, in division, by some of the London editors, the "stone expedition."

A letter from a gentleman at Massac, dated, April 23, 1804, says, "Mr. Wood arrived here yesterday from L'Anc-a-la-Grace, who informs, that two men from Danville, (K.) on their route down the river, were killed by a party of Muskogee or Creek Indians about eight days since, a few miles below the mouth of the Ohio."

Pittsburgh Paper.

SUB-MARINE BOATS.
The following article on the subject of these inventions, we extract from a late London paper:

"The French, who despair of being able to show their canvas on the surface of the ocean, are reported to be sedulously employed in the construction of vessels for sailing under it. We are assured that six submarine boats have been built at Paris, and arrived at Havre, each competent to hold 20 persons, and supplied with machinery, which on being attached to the bottom of a ship, will either sink or blow it up.

The principle of these vessels is not new; the great lord Napier, the marquis Worcester, and others more than a century ago, made various experiments. One of them constructed for James I., by Debehf was tried on the Thames. A Mr. Day, about 30 years since, made a successful experiment, but repeating it at Plymouth, was unfortunately drowned.

During the American war, some of these sub-marine boats were built by Dr. Bushnell, of Connecticut, who affirms that one of his operators actually brought his boat under a British 50 gun ship, lying near New-York; but the foree (or the magazine containing 150 lbs. of powder, to be fired with clock work, which would go 12 hours if necessary) happened to strike upon iron, and the man in moving the apparatus, lost the ship. Mr. Bushnell further states, that in 1777, he made an attempt Cerberus frigate, lying at anchor near New-London; the frigate escaped, but his machine which was conducted by a line, without any person on board, exploded, and totally demolished a schr. which was concealed from his view by the frigate, and received the shock intended for the latter. In the same year he destroyed a boat in the Delaware by this invisible agency.

M. St. Aubin, a member of the tribunate, for ten months since, published at Paris an account of a diving boat, invented by an American named Fulton; in this at Havre, the inventor remained an hour under water, made half a league of way in that time, the boat moving horizontally at various depths, and the compass traversing as on the surface. In another experiment at Brest, Mr. F. blew up a lighter by a machine attached to his boat; this boat, when above water, is rigged with two sails, and has the appearance of a common boat.

The boats lately built at Paris, are reported to be formed on the same model, capable of resisting any pressure of water, and of containing provisions, &c., and also air for the crew for six or eight hours."

NAPLES, Feb. 5.

We have received accounts here that the American government has concluded a peace with Tripoli on condition of paying to that state 450,000 Spanish piastres. This report, however, requires confirmation.

NEW-YORK, May 14.
Capt. Goodrich, who arrived here yesterday from Amsterdam, informs that the transports had fallen down to New-Dieppe, and were in readiness to receive the troops for the invasion. There was a report in circulation at Amsterdam, that the Prince of Conde, had been taken up and executed for having been concerned in the conspiracy. The fate of Moreau, &c. was not known when the Frances Henrietta failed.

By the Frances Henrietta, we have received a file of Amsterdam papers to the 30th of March. One of these papers contains the following article:

Paris, March 22.—The report which was yesterday in circulation respecting Louis Anthony Henry, of Bourbon, is this day confirmed by the public papers. A few hours after he was brought from Strasburg to Paris, he was sentenced to death in consequence of his having been concerned in the conspiracy.—Another paper says that Louis was taken in the night by a French officer dispatched to Strasburg, for the purpose. He had prepared to defend himself; but his own secretary, who was a Frenchman, secretly deprived him of his arms, which he did not discover till the moment of his seizure.

SAVANNAH, April 28.

The citizens of Savannah were thrown into a serious state of agitation and alarm the past week, from the very reprehensible nature of some sentiments contained in the charge made to the grand jury of this county, delivered on Monday last, by Jabez Bowen, Jr. esq. judge of the superior court for the eastern district of this state, and which was increased by a knowledge of certain observations that had fallen from the judge, antecedent and subsequent to the delivery of the charge, still more highly inflammatory.

The inexpediency of more particularly animadverting upon the subject, induces us to proceed in the detail to our readers of the papers analogous to the business, and which will be found themselves sufficiently explanatory. The grand jury continued to meet the court until Monday morning, when they delivered to the judge the following presentment:

We the grand jury for the body of the county of Chatham, having taken into re-consideration the political fracture delivered to us yesterday as a charge, by his honor judge Bowen, do, upon our oaths present:—That it is judicial, insulting to our government, repugnant to the general interest of our country, by disseminating principles that may tend to involve the community in the horrors of domestic insurrection. We, therefore, without violence to our confidences, and a total disregard of the dearest ties of society and its welfare, cannot further proceed with business.—And we are of opinion from the reasons above mentioned, that the said charge should not receive publication; but recommend that a copy of the charge and this our presentment be forwarded by the clerk of the superior court to his excellency the governor, and be laid before the next session of the legislature for their consideration.

Inflamed at this temperate yet dignified conduct of the grand jury, the judge instantly ordered the sheriff to take them to jail. They were proceeding, when there arose a partial cry of "no, they shall not go"—which was immediately silenced by the determined deportment of the grand jury—at this cry the judge pulled from his pocket a brace of pistols, impassionately exclaiming, "where is the damn'd rascal who dare say no! shoot him to me, and I'll blow his brains out." The grand jury, however, proceeded to jail, accompanied by most of the gentlemen of the bar, who rose in a body and left the court house directly on their departure. This took place about 9 o'clock in the morning. The bar immediately had a meeting and the following are the minutes of their proceedings on the occasion:

At a meeting of the attorneys of the bar of Savannah, held at the court house on Wednesday the 25th of April, 1804, at 11 A.M.

General Mitchell in the chair.

On motion, Unanimously resolved, That an entertainment be provided for the grand jury of this county, now confined in jail, at 4 o'clock this day, at the expence of the bar, and that the attorneys will dine with the jury. That Messrs. Lawson and Guyler be a committee to carry the resolution into effect, and that Messrs. Bullock and Berrien be a committee to wait on the grand jury, and that a copy be presented to the foreman of the grand jury; also that extra sheets thereof be published this evening.

(Signed)

Jabez Bowen, jun. (L.S.)
Copy of the proceedings,
Wm. Davis, secretary.

A meeting of the citizens was also called, at 1 o'clock, p.m. who came to the following resolves:

At a meeting of the citizens of Savannah, precisely convened, and held at the exchange on the 25th day of April, 1804.

Joseph Clay, esq. in the chair.

Resolved unanimously, That the citizens of Savannah, do highly applaud the firm, dignified, and patriotic conduct of the present grand jury of Chatham county, for which they have been committed to jail by judge Bowen, the judge of the supreme court, and that the thanks of the citizens be presented them for their very proper demeanor on the occasion and that a committee consisting of John Bolton, Edward Telfair, and Samuel Howard, esqrs. be appointed for that purpose.

Resolved unanimously, That a committee be appointed to wait upon the several printers in this city, to request in the name of the citizens, that the charge of his honor judge Bowen to the grand jury of Chatham county, should not be printed.

Resolved unanimously, That a subscription be opened for the support and maintenance of the grand jury of Chatham county, while in goal, and for furnishing them with every convenience; and that a committee be appointed to receive the subscriptions, and invest the money for their benefit while in goal.

Resolved unanimously, that the representatives of this county to the legislature, be requested and instructed to exert themselves to procure a legislative inquiry into the official conduct of the judge of the superior court for this circuit, in committing to jail the grand jury for the county of Chatham, who are constitutionally bound to preserve the rights of the people, and who, in a court of judicature are their lawful representatives, and also into the other official misconduct of the said judge.

Resolved unanimously, that a committee of seven be appointed for carrying into effect the foregoing resolution, and that the said committee be empowered to procure such testimony as may be thought necessary to substantiate the charges.

Resolved unanimously, that a committee be appointed to confer with the committee of the bar, upon the most proper measures to be pursued for the discharge of the grand jury of Chatham county, from their present confinement, and to use every lawful means to procure their enlargement.

Resolved unanimously, that the citizens of Savannah view with abhorrence the conduct of judge Bowen this day while on the bench of the superior court, and during the sitting of the same, in drawing and presenting a pistol against a number of the citizens of this place, and in using the most indecent and profane language, whereby the dignity of his office, and respectability of this government are profaned.

Resolved unanimously, that the proceedings of this meeting be signed by the chairman and secretary, and published in the newspapers of this city, and that a copy be presented to the foreman of the grand jury; also that extra sheets thereof be published this evening.

(Signed)

Joseph Clay, chairman.
A true copy of the original proceeding.

Samuel Howard, secretary.

Thus situated and taking into consideration the heinous flagitious language of the judge, a warrant was issued against him for an "attempt to excite domestic insurrection," and he was apprehended between 9 and 10 o'clock, but before he was taken, he attempted to make his escape, and flashed a loaded pistol at the sheriff.

The next morning (Thursday) the grand jury, through their counsel petitioned the justices of the inferior court, for a writ of Habeas Corpus, which was granted. The grounds upon which the inferior court acted, will be found detailed in the following document of their proceedings.

Chambers, April 26, 1804.
Present, the hon. Edward Telfair, Edward Harden, John G. Williamson, esqrs.

State of Georgia, vs.

Wm. Smith, &c. Habeas Corpus.

In this case Messrs. Mitchell, Noel, Miller, and Berrien, attorneys in behalf of the prisoners, aided by a committee appointed by the citizens of this county for that purpose, applied for the enlargement of the prisoners.

After argument; it appears that William Smith, Barrack Gibbons, William Blagg, James Mackintosh, Richard Turner, Solomon Shad, William Lowden, James Alget, John Gibbons, Isaac Morris, William Brown, Saul Simons, James Belcher, John Y. White, Joseph Rice, Joseph Machin, John Pettibone, Sampson Neyle, Timothy Bernard, David Gugle, Henry Putnam, and Jonathan Cline, compounding the grand inquest, for the fitting of the court; and thereupon unanimously resolved, that they will not take their seats at the bar, during the present term, nor answer to their names when called; but will attend without bar at all times, when the grand jury shall be brought up before the court, for the purpose of affording such council and advice as their circumstances may require.

dy of the county of Chatham, were in the forenoon of yesterday committed to the common jail of this county by judge Bowen, under and by virtue of a precept in these words:

"You are hereby required and commanded to keep safe in your custody those members of the grand jury committed to your safe keeping this morning by the sheriff, in obedience to the order of the judge of the superior court until you receive from under my hand an order for their liberation.

(Signed)

Jabez Bowen, jun. (L.S.)

Which said commitment appears to be vague, informal, and affords no specific charge or reason, for the commitment, wants precision, naming no particular persons, and contains this unlawful restriction, that the jailer should keep them until he should receive from under the said judge's hand, an order for their liberation, and without a date.

It further appears that since the above commitment, judge Bowen has been confined and in close custody in the common jail of this county, which has thereby suspended his judicial functions, created a virtual absence and legal disability of the judge of the superior court, as appears by the jailor's certificate in the following words:

Georgia, To the keeper of the common jail of said county.

Receive the body of the honorable Jabez Bowen, junior, brought before me on a warrant charging him with an attempt to execute a domestic insurrection in this state, and him safely keep until the same be delivered by due course of law.

Given under my hand and seal,

25th April 1804.

John Pooler, Jr. P. (L.S.)

I do certify that the above is a copy of a mittimus in my possession under which I have the body of the person therein named now in the common jail of Chatham county.

J. P. Oates, jailer C. C.

Savannah, 27th April, 1804.

And the 7th section of the judiciary act of 1799, giving unto any two of the justices of the inferior court in the absence of the judge of the superior court, full power and authority to issue writs of habeas corpus and in all cases to discharge, admit to bail, or remand to jail, any prisoner according to their direction, and the law of the land—and the sheriff of the county of Chatham, having the said William Smith, and the other prisoners named in the said habeas corpus, before us as commanded, together with judge Bowen's commitment, as the only cause of their caption and detention.

The court thereupon addressed them:

Fellow-Citizens,

It will be difficult to find a precedent to meet your case, at the same time we feel no hesitation, in declaring your commitment, now before the court, illegal.

Because, that it strikes at the root of jurisprudence, and consequently puts a period to the present term; without you the lives and rights of your fellow citizens are in danger—it is the grand jury of inquest they look up to for protection, and without your body, the laws of our country cannot be executed. The patriotism, firmness, and dignity with which you have conducted yourselves, together with the patience and fortitude you have displayed, will hand your names with applause to posterity.

The arbitrary and illegal confinement under which you have labored for twenty four hours, is hereby declared to cease, and therefore you are discharged from your confinement.

A true copy from the minutes,

James Bullock, clk.

The grand jury have made the following address to their fellow-citizens, through the medium of their chairman:

Savannah, April 26, 1804.

To Joseph Clay et al. chairman of the meeting of the citizens of Savannah, publicly convened at the exchange, the 25th April, 1804.

SIR,

We the subscribers late members of the grand inquest for the body of the county of Chatham, are happy at finding that the conduct we, from our duty to our country and to ourselves, were constrained to adopt towards Jabez Bowen, jun. judge of the eastern district on the 25th inst. has been so generally approved by our fellow citizens.

The attention paid, the liberal vote and offer for maintenance while in confinement, by our fellow citizens are deeply impressed upon our feelings.

We present through you sir, our sincere thanks to them for the lively interest, exhibited towards us on the occasion.

A Paris paper of April 24th says, "We are assured that the French government has seized a secret correspondence, which throws fresh light upon the horrible conspiracy formed by the enemies of the republic against the government and person of the first consul. This correspondence consists of several original letters, written by a minister of England, accredited by one of the German courts, and were addressed to a mercenary agent, whom he had sent to Paris to assist his designs.—The English minister recommended it especially to his agent, to obtain a knowledge of the warlike plans of the French government; to employ all possible means to disorganize the armies, and to endeavour to corrupt the persons employed in the manufacture of gunpowder. There is reason to believe that this correspondence will soon be published."

THE PINE TREE & THE VINE.

A FABLE.

WRITTEN BY A CAROLINIAN.

B EATH the Pine's majestic head,
A Vine her humbler branches spread;
The juicy fruit in clusters hung,
The gently quivering leaves among;
Whilst tuneful birds were perch'd around
Her stem with luscious berries crown'd.
At length with many a hollow groan,
The Pine tree thus began his moan—
And distant rocks and hills the sound,
Sadly disconsolate, rebound.

* No longer hither bend their flight,
Or on my cracking boughs alight;
No he'd opp'red by scouring hand,
Beneath my waving shadow stand;
But here the night-owl horrid screams,
O'er as the moon withdraws its beams:
Or boisterous storms my branches tear,
And whirl the feather'd leaves in air,
When peals on peals of thunders roar,
Far echoing from the distant shore:
When the blue lightnings streak the sky,
How do I dread destruction nigh!
Whilst yon mean shrub that creeps along,
Liftens to many a warbler's song."

"Cease cried the Vine, nor grieve in vain,
For what you never can at ait:
Were you like me of humble birth,
Doom'd as it were to sweep the earth;
Nor howling winds, nor beating rain,
Nor flashing skies should give you pain."

So when beneath the pond'rous weight
Of civil discord in a state,
The great bend low with care oppress'd,
In fruitless search of banish'd rest;
Sweet peace still glads the rural cell,
Delighted there alone to dwell;
Where far from noisy pomp and pride,
Healthjoy and happiness reside.

After long consideration and much meditation of the great reputation you possess in the nation, I have a strong inclination to become your relation. SIR,

I perused your oration with much deliberation and a little consternation, at the great infatuation of your weak imagination, to shew such veneration, on so slight a foundation. But, after examination and serious contemplation, I suppose your admiration was the fruit of recreation, or had sprung from ostentation to display your education, by an odd enumeration, or rather multiplication, of words of the same termination, tho' of great variation, in each respective signature.

Now, without disputing, your laborious application, to so tedious an occupation, deserves commendation: and, thinking an imitation a sufficient gratification, I am, without hesitation,
